

Higher Education

Now more than ever, Higher Education officials are being forced to think of innovative ways to meet ever changing economic and regulatory demands. While facing decreased funding, inflated costs, and the need to increase faculty and provide facility improvements, administrators are being forced to slash budgets that ultimately diminish the student experience. Struggling to find new ways to stay relevant and attract more students and top faculty, administrators are searching for true partners to assist them in enhancing their learning environments.

TRANSITION FEARS RELIEVED

We hope to alleviate the fears that bringing in an outside company means the existing staff will be laid off and replaced with a new team - creating a nightmare of bad public relations and an outcry from the communities you serve. Ensuring a smooth transition with your existing employees is central to the way we do business. Not only does SSC have every desire to keep your productive employees, we provide them with more tools and opportunities to succeed and grow in their careers.

As the leader of support services for higher education institutions, SSC realizes how important the appearance of your facilities is to the overall image of your college or university. First impressions have a lasting impact, so it's vital that all aspects of your institution are looking their very best to prospective and current students, faculty, and staff. SSC has the management expertise, processes, and systems in place to improve results at a lower cost. This creates an attractive environment that best showcases your campus. Our best practices, expert training, and technological innovations help create better efficiencies within your facilities, which in turn provide significant cost savings. This allows you to reinvest those savings into hiring additional faculty, expand core programs, and much more.
